KAKHURI GVINIS MARANI

We combine modern cutting-edge technologies with 8000 years of wine-making traditions passed down through generations of winemakers to produce wine with character and quality.

After 1991 the founder of Kakhuri Gvinis Marani started reclaiming the family owned vineyards that were confiscated from his ancestors by the Soviet authorities in 1920s. In 2005 the company built a new winery in Gurjaani in the center of Kakheti.

What makes us special.

1. Family owned wine company
2. Wine of Quality and Character
3. Merging of traditions, modern creativity and technologies.
4. Wine harvested from only our own vineyards.

We produce:

1. Wine both by European and traditional technologies are bottled in glass and in ceramic bottles.
2. Georgian Brandy aged from three to more than ten years
3. Chacha- traditional spirits made by distillation of grape skin and juice.

Front - The image of David Aghmashenebeli, with beard and wearing empire clothing is presented in anaphase. He has a long scepter in his right hand. He holds a sphere in his left hand, which is decorated with the cross. The upper part of the crown is also decorated with the cross. The king is wearing necklase.

David the king of Aphkhasians, Georgians, Rans, Kakhs, Armenians.

Copper Giorgi IV Lasha 1207-1210

Giorgi IV Lasha (born in 1192 - passed away on January 18th 1223) - Georgian king in 1213-1223. Son of queen Tamar and David Soslan.

Tamar made him a king and gave him the right to participate in countries' governing since 1207. His lands were located in Javakheti, and that is why he is being called Javakh Prince on the coins of that period. After Tamar passed away, Giorgi IV became sole governor. His will was to straighten king's power, keep the unity of the country and integrate the sworn countries, which were trying to escape from the control of Georgia.

Coin of queen Mariam, the year 1070

The king Bagrat and his second wife Borena sent their daughter Marta to Constantinople, to get an appropriate education, in 1056. Another cup in the Byzantine Kingdom was discovered in 1078. Michael Doukas Parapinakēs was made to retire to the monastery and Nikephoros III Botaneiates (1078-1083) was announced to be an emperor.

In 1081, Alexios Komnenos helped by Mariam, managed to dismiss Nikephoros III Botaneiates from the throne and become a new emperor. Alexios Komnenos was adopted by the queen in order to announce his son co-emperor, together with Constantine. Bizantinian history does not know any case, when the former wife of the emperor keeps all her rights. Only Mariam remained in all her rights and it was her honor. even more, she experienced all her privileges and powers.

It is known, that in 1104, Marta visited Georgia and attended Ruisi-Urbnisi meeting, accompanied by her brother (Giorgi II) and nephew (David Aghmashenebeli).

She is buried in one of the monasteries, nearby Trakia. The land belonged to her and was given to her by Alexios Komnenos.

Pirosmani

Niko Pirosmashvili, is a Georgian primitive artist, born in 1862 in Mirzaani and passed away in 1918 in Tbilisi.

The works of Pirosmashvili were presented on I Big Georgian Exhibition, held in Tbilisi in 1918. In 1920th, Georgian press had published letters, addressed to him, as well the special collection, dedicated to him. The interest towards Pirosmashvili especially grew after 1950th - the related books were published in Georgia, Russia and foreign countries. The biographic movie was shot; different related theatre plays and musical performances were held. The exhibition of Pirosmashvili works was organized in different towns of former USSR as well as the cities of different Western European countries. The greatest part of artist's works is now preserved in Georgian State Art Museum and different private collections abroad.
